Remember and Celebrate Day

On Thursday 5 September, we offered time for those in our school community who wanted to share some time reflecting on grief and loss of a loved one who had died.

We used moulding clay, craft items, grief quotes and story books to ponder our feelings and memories, and celebrate their life. It was a beneficial time, with comments such as 'I always did craft with my Nan at her house', 'it helped me get over my loss', and 'I think it's good to remember'

We would like to create a story about grief and loss for our school community. If you would like to offer ideas, please contact me. If you would like to talk about grief, I would be happy to meet.

Quote of the week: You'll never be the same, and that's okay.
